APPENDIX 4

APPS AND WEBSITES

FOR NOTES AND ASSIGNMENTS

- Evernote has a website and apps. It is my favorite tool for note taking because my notes would sync across all my devices—iPhone, iPad and MacBook. I ended up writing some of my thesis at the beach using Evernote on my iPhone and edited it when I got home.
- Easybib.com is an amazing website for quickly creating bibliographies for essays. Saves a ton of time.
- Studyblue has a website and apps to creating digital flash cards. The flashcards can also be shared with others, so you can collaborate with people in your study groups to create cards for different sections of a class. The mobile apps are great for studying while commuting.
- Dropbox has websites and apps and is a great place to store all your files in case your computer ever breaks down. Your files can also sync across all your devices.
- Apps by Readdle
  - Calendars is an app that I've found to have a cleaner design than the calendar apps that come pre-installed on phones. This app can connect with Google Calendar and iCal.
  - Documents is an app that is perfect for saving articles and other files that are required reading for classes instead of printing hundreds of pages a semester/quarter.
  - PDF Expert is an app that allows for annotating and highlighting PDF files. Again, like Documents, this app allows for not printing PDF files that are required reading for classes.

JOB SEARCH WEBSITES

- indeed.com
- angel.co (for startup jobs)
- linkedin.com
  - You should be sure to create a LinkedIn account sooner than later since this is how you will connect with those you work with or meet at networking events.
- craigslist.org
- monster.com
- simplyhired.com
- Handshake app
  - This app connects college graduates with employers in a seamless way. Their work is dedicated to matching students and graduates with employers using data no matter what the student studied and where they are located. you work with or meet at networking events.
